

BUSINESS FRIENDLY

Lander has all the benefits of small town living in a big country setting. With a low cost of living, low cost of doing business and low stress, Lander is the perfect place to relocate your business, your family, and restart your life in the mountain west.

Wyoming is tax-friendly and rated one of the best in the nation for delivering the highest quality services for the lowest tax cost. No corporate income tax, no personal income tax, low sales tax and worker's comp rates, highly trained workforce, high speed internet telecommunications - DSL and satellite, recreation opportunities, lack of crime, traffic and stress are just a few of the reasons to relocate your business to Lander, Wyoming.

Located at the base of the Wind River Mountains, 5400 feet above sea level, Lander is the southern gateway to the Wind River Mountain Range. Centrally located, Lander is within a six hour drive to the major Rocky Mountain West markets of Denver, Colorado; Salt Lake City, Utah; and Billings, Montana. The Riverton Regional Airport, 26 miles from Lander, provides daily service to Denver. Interstate 80 and Interstate 90 traverse Wyoming and are easily accessible from Lander. Hunt Field Airport, Lander's local airfield, is located approximately 1 mile from downtown Lander.

The diversity of Lander's thriving business community is evidenced by the selection of retail shops located on the historic Main Street, and accented by offices for organizations such as the National Outdoor Leadership School, the Nature Conservancy and the Wyoming Outdoor Council. Lander is also known as the "City of Bronze" for the famous bronze foundry located here as well as the many bronze statues that enhance the city's public places.
